1 PROGRAMME BACKGROUND

1.1 ABOUT THE PROGRAMME

Children are a key indicator of wellbeing and a healthy society. A child-friendly city ensures an enabling built environment that is healthy and safe, develops their faculties, and fosters their love for community and for nature. The Bernard van Leer Foundation (BvLF) and National Institute of Urban Affairs (NIUA) have been continuously working towards sharpening the focus towards ‘infants toddlers and caregivers’ (0-5 years) in Indian cities. The association has been instrumental towards developing a substantial body of knowledge and experience on ground with respect to creating and facilitating child- friendly cities and spaces. One of the most positive outcomes of this work has been creation of the acknowledgement that young children are stakeholders in the use and design of built environment of their neighbourhoods and cities. The collective work has been able to inform national level urban missions like Smart Cities and AMRUT as well as disseminate knowledge to a number of cities and organisations.

In this context, Infant, Toddler and Caregiver-Friendly Neighbourhoods (ITCN) Training and Capacity Building Programme has been co-designed to implement a structured multi-level ITCN capacity-building programme with specific outcome areas for City officials and young professionals over a period of two years starting January 2021.

The programme intends to utilise the vast body of knowledge developed by BvLF partnership program and NIUA under the CFSC initiative and develop knowledge products and training modules covering new aspects of ITC. It is proposed that the Capacity Building will be conducted through training modules that will be run online through NIUA and MoHUA’s National Urban Learning Platform (NULP).

The programme follows a modular training approach. The course content shall be developed by Training of Trainers (ToT) agency which will be then disseminated by the training agencies to the government officials and young professionals. The programme has three levels of courses:

- Orientation Course (Basic Level Course)
To establish the need for better understanding of ITC needs at neighbourhood level for ULB officials.
- Operational Course (Intermediate Level Course)
To empower cities to further champion interventions and projects with contextualised data and promote informed decision making
- Implementation Course (Advanced Level Course)
To promote a thorough understanding with the government officials for the need of ITC features or aspects in play spaces, mobility, informal settlements, and urban resilience.
- Academic Certification Programme
Embed ITCN elements from the ITCN Guidelines and the knowledge products mentioned above within the existing academic curriculum and equip young professionals with ITCN framework and aspects as they join the urban professional workforce through a certified programme and courses

As part of the programme, up to at least 200 urban City officials and 250+ young professionals will be trained through certified training and capacity building modules. In addition, toolkits for developing a city level data dashboard and toolkit to embed the ITCN framework within the city development plans will be developed and professionals will be equipped to utilise these resources with requisite knowledge and skills. This will provide an opportunity for continued and wider knowledge dissemination on the subject.
